President Says Economy Will Top $400 Billion

Warns Against Complacency in Report to Congress

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—President Eisenhower today confidently predicted continued prosperity in 1956 with the nation's economy topping the $400 billion mark.

But, in his annual Economic message to Congress, he warned against complacency toward this "unprecedented prosperity." He said government, management and labor must be alert to possible threats of recession and inflation.

Mr. Eisenhower proudly reported the nation "reached the threshold of a $400 billion economy" last year. He boasted of the "practical attainment" of the "cherished goals" of full employment, rising incomes and a stable dollar.

Most economic activities reached new record peaks last year, he said. More Americans worked and made more money than ever before. They also spent a record amount on autos, televisions and other goods and services that make for better living.

The gross national product—the total of goods and services produced—rose from $360.5 billion in 1954 to $387.4 billion last year. It now is at an estimated annual rate of $397 billion, "if not higher."

Personal income jumped by $15.5 billion to $303.1 billion. Corporate profits at $43.2 billion showed a gain of $9.2 billion.

The average number of employed persons increased by about 2 million, totalling about 63.2 million last year. Unemployment declined.

Average weekly earnings of industrial workers went up $5.79 to $79.90.

Industrial production climbed 11 per cent over 1954. Industrial plants "increased markedly" their expansion expenditures to meet increased consumer demand. Construction spending increased $4.7 billion to a new high of $42.2 billion.

Falling income of farmers and high unemployment in economically depressed industrial spots were about the only matters for gloom in Mr. Eisenhower's report. He urged quick action by Congress on his new programs designed to ease their economic plight.

Farm Income Drops
Gross farm income, he said, dropped $1.2 billion in 1955 to $33.3 billion.

"Taking recent development all together," he said, "it is reasonable to expect that high levels of production, employment and income will be broadly sustained during the coming year, and that underlying conditions will remain favorable to further economic growth."

The President again recommended that Congress put reduction of the public debt ahead of a tax cut. He also said more federal revenue will be needed to finance proposed school construction, aid to depressed areas and other new programs.

Under present conditions, he added, a tax cut is not justified and would be "irresponsible."

In predicting continued prosperity, Mr. Eisenhower noted recent declines in auto production, housing starts and some other economic fields. But, he added, they were "amply offset by increases elsewhere."

Mr. Eisenhower warned that increasing installment buying must not be permitted to get out of hand. He said that, on the whole, it has been "highly beneficial to our economy." But he said unbridled, excessive use of it might have serious effects on the economy.

For this reason, he asked Congress to consider restoring to a standby basis the Federal Reserve's authority to control consumer credit.

The President asked for authority to insure home repair and modernization loans for five years. The present limit is three years.

Mr. Eisenhower's other recommendations for economic progress included lifting incomes by raising productivity; improvement of economic status of older persons; steps to cope with personal hardships such as floods and catastrophic illness; preservation of sound federal finances; aid to small and medium-sized businesses; fostering of competitive enterprise through tightening of anti-trust and anti-monopoly programs, and public works such as highways and dams.

About Town

And Country

Liabilities Look Like Assets In Bank Statements

BANK STATEMENTS: All of us, I guess, have looked at the statements the banks publish periodically in the papers of our town and country, which reveal the financial condition of the institution.

As a boy I used to read them and wonder why some of the things the banks called liabilities were not called assets, as having them surely seemed like assets to me. Perhaps it's added up the same way to you at one time or another.

But a fellow named Earl Tucker, editor of the Thomasville (Alabama) Times, has done it up better than this writer could ever do. He's written a really humorous item about bank statements called "What's in a Statement?"

Here is what Editor Tucker says in his dissertation passed on to me by Dick Davenport, cashier of the Harrisburg National bank:

"It's the time of the year in Alabama when banks are required, by law, to publish their statements of condition. The law, of course, is a silly one. The people who own the banks already know the condition and the public can't understand the statements after they're published."

"For instance, did you ever happen to notice that the assets and liabilities amount to the same thing? It happens every time. Looks to me like the banks are travelling on mighty thin ice and getting nowhere fast."

"For years, I've been glancing over the papers, hoping I would find at least one business-like institution that had more assets than it had liabilities. But it seems there just ain't none. They're all Even-Steibens."

"All the things they list under the column 'Liabilities.' For instance our bank lists a surplus of $50,000 as a liability. Brother, a $50,000 surplus just naturally ain't no drawback no way you figure it."

"Another thing our bank claims as a liability is $42,000 in undivided profits. I believe that's one trouble with our banking officials. They tell a liability from an asset. The undivided profits thing keeps growing each year, getting bigger and bigger. I can't understand why they don't go ahead and whack it up. After all, they're in business to make money. I'm just afraid there's going to be a heck of a wrangle one of these days when they finally get around to dividing it up."

"According to our officials, the bank here has another liability. It's a reserve for taxes amounting to $8,700. Suppose you had, in your pockets, all the money you needed to pay your taxes for the next 12 months. What would you call it? Me, too!

"Then, over in the 'Asset' column they list loans and discounts of $609,209.60. Now I know all about loans but what the heck is a discount? All these years I've been trying to get a loan when maybe I should have been asking for a discount, too. They have loaned me a little money and I suppose it's included in that $609,209.60, but I've got news for them. My part's in the wrong column."

"They have overdrafts of $54.01 (I don't see how that ever happened) but anyway it's listed as an asset. I knew a fellow once who went slap busted because he got a desk drawer full of bad checks. Reckon the fellow accumulated too many assets."

"Actually I know more about banking than I make out here. I've always managed to owe 'em more than I have in 'em. That way I can't lose. It's better than anything the FDIC has been able to offer."

Seven File for Governor; Some Will Withdraw

Knowland Announces He Will Leave Name On GOP Primary Ballot

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.)—There were five presidential candidates and seven candidates for governor entered in the Illinois primary today, but withdrawals from today through Saturday were expected to cut this field down.

However, from Washington U. S. Sen. William F. Knowland of California announced he will leave his name on the GOP primary ballot here.

Petitions to put Knowland into the April 10 Republican presidential primary against President Eisenhower were filed Monday, the final day for filing, by Mrs. Ruth Troyak of Chicago.

Gov. William G. Stratton entered Mr. Eisenhower's name last week. The name will stay on the ballot even if the President decides not to be a candidate unless it is withdrawn by next Saturday.

Jenner's Name Filed
Other names filed for president on the Republican ticket Monday were those of U. S. Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind.) and Chicago stool and chair salesman Lar Daly, both filed by Daly. Daly also entered himself for governor.

Democratic State Central Committee Chairman James A. Ronan submitted petitions to put the name of former Gov. Adlai E. Stevenson at the top of the Democratic ballot. Stevenson will be the only Democrat in the party's presidential primary, which indicates voter preference and does not bind delegates.

In addition to Daly, gubernatorial candidates filing on the final day were State Treasurer Warren E. Wright, Benton attorney Sidney M. Ward, and Anthony E. Polley of Chicago on the Republican ticket, and Chicago City Treasurer Morris B. Sachs for the Democratic nomination.

Daly said Jenner had asked him not to file the Jenner-for-president petitions, but Daly said he was doing it anyway because the people had a right to vote on all qualified men.

Says Downstate Neglected
The secretary of state's office Monday announced the official withdrawal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur from the Republican presidential primary. Daly had entered MacArthur's name last week.

Wright filed petitions for both governor and secretary of state. He plans to withdraw one set by Saturday noon and run for the remaining nomination.

Ward said he was running for (Continued on Page Three)

John Molinarolo Elected Muddy Village President

John Molinarolo, unopposed, was elected president of the board of trustees of the Village of Muddy yesterday in the first election held since the municipality was incorporated.

Molinarolo received 51 votes. Fifty-one votes were cast at the election, out of a possible 58 voters living in the municipality.

Elected also were six trustees, a village clerk and a police magistrate.

There were seven candidates for the six trustee posts, the vote being as follows: John Pesavento 48, Bill Bean 47, Leo Poderiscki 45, Albert Hathaway 45, Mike Bolatto 50, Willie Stewart 50 and George William King 8.

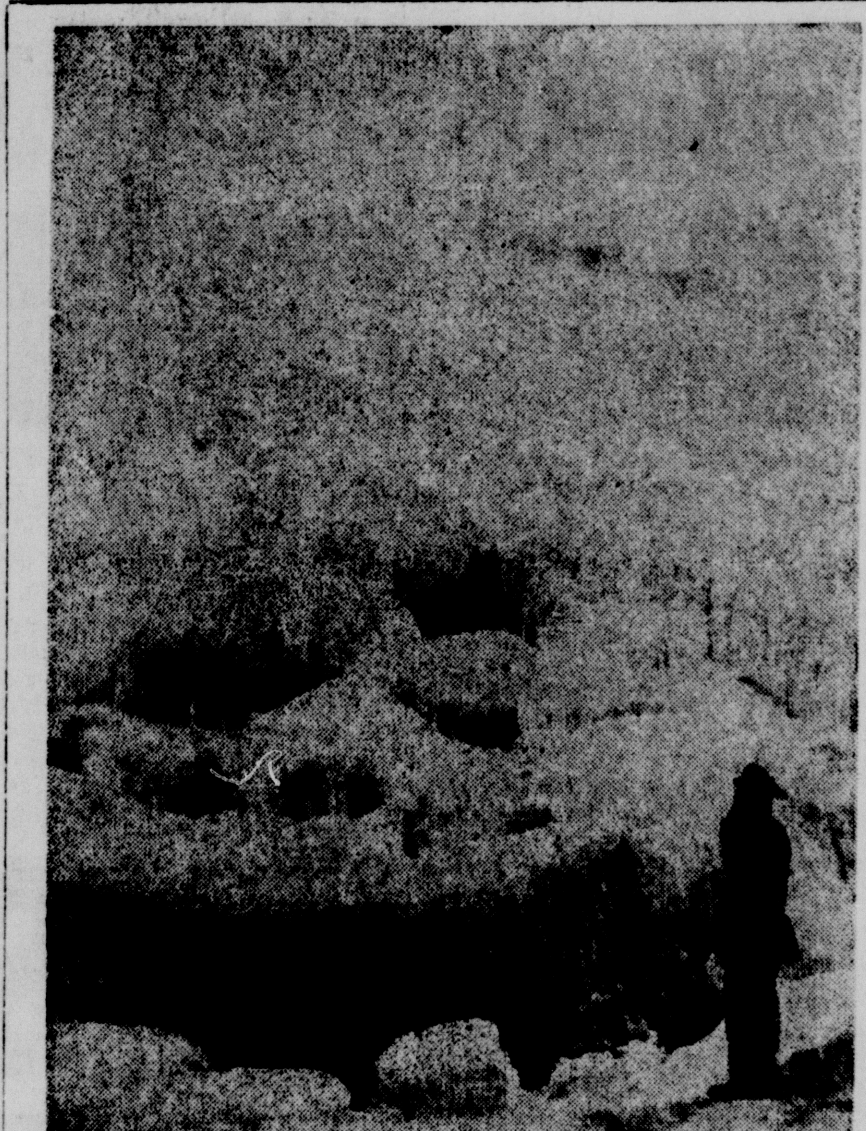

Rita Bolatto, with 44 votes, beat Betty King, who received 6, for clerk.

Virgil Dardeen, unopposed for police magistrate, received 50 votes.

Molinarolo said the village board would be organized in eight or 10 days.

Sullivan Files in Representative Race; Four More File for Coroner

Wilson is Only Candidate for State's Attorney

The period for filing nominating petitions for the April 10 primary ended yesterday with additional candidates entering district, county and precinct races.

Four More File for Coroner
In the office of County Clerk Don B. Garrison, four more filed for the office of coroner, one more for Representative, committeeman and two for the two non-political school trustee posts.

At Springfield, petitions of Dale H. Sullivan of Harrisburg were filed for Republican representative from the 59th district. Filing for the same post was George C. Trengoning, Carverville Republican. K. Neil Thurmond of Johnston City filed for Democratic representative from the 59th district.

Wilson is Only Candidate for State's Attorney
Cong. Kenneth Gray of West Frankfort filed his petitions seeking to return to Congress from the 25th district and Louis H. Dowley filed petitions for delegate to the Democratic nominating convention.

In Saline county, petitions of Ike Willford of Eldorado and Alonzo Beal of Harrisburg were filed for coroner on the Republican ticket, and James Thornton of Carrier Mills and Dr. James B. Woolard of Galatia filed for coroner in the Democratic primary.

George Rees of Harrisburg filed for Democratic Representative committeeman and the two candidates to be elected to the non-political school trustee offices are J. W. Wintzler of Cottage and Bruce Burnett of Eldorado.

The close of the filing period shows but one candidate, incumbent Robert V. Wilson, Eldorado Democrat, in the race for state's attorney. No Republican candidate filed. However, the GOP can get on the November ballot either by write-in at the April primary, or if a vacancy still occurs, the Republican committee can certify a candidate to the ballot in late summer.

The coroner filings put three in both Republican and Democratic races. Besides Willford and Beal, Elmer M. Gibbons, the present coroner, is in the Republican race. A. E. "Red" Giles of Eldorado is in the Democratic race along with Thornton and Woolard.

Others in Precinct Races
Rees' entry into the Representative committeeman race puts two into the primary, with one to be elected to represent Saline county on the committee. The other is Ezra Heatherly of Harrisburg. No Republican filed for Representative committeeman from Saline county.

Additional filings for precinct committeeman:
Harrisburg 2—Isham Threot R. Harrisburg 5—Roy R. Lane D. Harrisburg 7—Lester Brinkley R. Harrisburg 9—Ural Johnson R. Harrisburg 11—Homer Wallace D.

Eldorado 1—Roger Kerr D. Eldorado 2—Laymon Jones R. Brushy 2—W. B. Riegel D. Cottage—George M. Robertson D. Bob F. Lane R.

Saturday is the deadline for withdrawing nominating petitions.

Manhunt for Irvin Spreads To West States

Las Vegas Police Seek to Tie Killer To Incident There

PRINCETON, Ind. (U.P.)—The manhunt for Leslie Irvin, escaped mass killer of six persons who escaped jail last week, spread to the West today.

Authorities at Las Vegas, Nev., sought to establish a connection between Irvin and a gunman who wrecked the car of a missing Californian, terrorized a family for two hours, and eluded capture.

Meanwhile, a Princeton judge denied a motion by Irvin's attorneys for a new trial in Gibson County, scene of the 31-year-old pipefitter's escape from jail Jan. 19 with the aid of keys he made of cardboard and tinfoil.

Irvin was convicted in December in the slaying of W. Wesley Kerr, Evansville filling station attendant, one of six persons he is accused of slaying in "Chinese execution" style in a four-month crime wave in Indiana and Kentucky last winter and spring.

Las Vegas police said at first the gunman's description fitted that of a friend of Irvin. They also toyed with the idea it might be Irvin himself.

Letter Submitted
The missing Californian was Kenneth Short, Burbank, who vanished while driving a new automobile home from Michigan.

Short's car cracked up while the gunman fled in it. The gunman then broke into the Loren Tracy home in North Las Vegas. After frightening the family for two hours, he fled again.

Before Judge A. Dale Eby of Princeton overruled a defense motion for a new trial, defense attorneys submitted a letter Irvin wrote and mailed from Mt. Carmel, Ill., the night he broke out of jail.

The letter, to Theodore Lockyear Jr., Evansville, one of the attorneys, said Irvin would surrender if given a new trial.

"I know this is the wrong thing to do," the letter said, "but I can't wait just to go up to Michigan City and wait. If they ever do give me a new trial, I'll come back and face it. Maybe the jury will believe the truth."

D. E. Cavender Rites Wednesday

Services Will Be Held at 3 p. m. at Methodist Church

Funeral services for Drue Edw. Cavender Sr., real estate broker in Harrisburg for over 40 years who died yesterday morning at the Lightner hospital following a heart attack suffered last Tuesday, will be Wednesday at 3 p. m. at the First Methodist church.

The pastor, Rev. W. L. Cummins, will conduct the service and burial will be in Lindale Memorial Gardens. The body will lie in state at the church one hour prior to the funeral.

Mr. Cavender was born September 8, 1884, in Rosiclare. He was a graduate of Southern Illinois university and a graduate of the Valparaiso University School of Law with the class of 1910. He was a member of the Indiana Bar and practiced in Terre Haute from 1910 to 1912.

On June 28, 1916, he was married to Alathia Caldwell, and to this union were born three children: Dean E. Cavender, Chicago, Drue E. Cavender Jr., Terre Haute, Ind., and Mrs. H. A. (Gertrude) Stanley, Muskogee, Okla.

He was the son of the late Jesse C. Cavender and Mary Soward Cavender.

Mr. Cavender was a charter member of the Harrisburg Kiwanis club, a member of the City Council in 1932, a member of the City school board for 20 years, a Mason, a member of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, and a member of various other civic organizations.

The body lies in state at the Harrisburg funeral home.

Dulles Appeals to Both Parties Not to Play Politics With U. S. Foreign Policy

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—Secretary of State John Foster Dulles made an urgent new appeal to both parties today not to play politics with the nation's foreign policy.

Dulles told his weekly news conference that political wrangling over foreign policy will increase the risk of war if it raises doubts abroad about America's intentions to live up to its international commitments.

Dulles warned there is a danger point which all patriotic citizens should recognize in an election year. This, he said, is to make sure that other nations do not lose their confidence in the solid, basic foreign policies of this country.

Dulles said basic bipartisan positions on foreign policy developed during the last 10 years involve U. S. prestige and honor in other countries.

He said it would be a very sad day and increase the risk of war if there should be doubt about U. S. determination to stand by its commitments.

On the current Republican-Democratic squabble over foreign aid, Dulles said he believes the administration will get necessary authority from Congress to undertake some long-term projects.

Sen. Walter F. George (D-Ga.), influential chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, has voiced his strong opposition to any long-term aid commitments. He continued to hold this view despite a personal conference with President Eisenhower Monday.

At the Senate, newsmen told George of Dulles' remarks and asked if there is a threat to bipartisanism in foreign policy.

"I hope not," George replied, "none so far as I'm concerned. My position all the while has been in favor of a bipartisan approach to international problems."

Dulles also touched on these other international issues:

Middle East: The United States still opposes an uncontrolled arms race in the Middle East. In event of open conflict in the area the

Seek $20,000 Damages in Dram Shop Suit

Three persons seek a total of $20,000 from an Elizabethtown tavern operator and his wife in a lawsuit filed in circuit court here under the provisions of the Illinois Dram Shop act.

Seeking damages from Carl and Veda Embree are Sam Knight, and Mary E. Endicott and James Knight, minors, by Stella Knight, their guardian. The lawsuit was filed by Atty. Joe M. Butler and Atty. Ralph W. Choiseur.

Knight seeks $5,000 for injuries received in an auto collision Jan. 23, 1954. A total of $10,000 is sought for Mary Endicott, $5,000 for James Endicott.

The complaint says that on Jan. 23, 1954, the Embrees sold or gave intoxicating liquor to James Richard Brazell, who took away the liquor, drank it, and became intoxicated.

It charges that while Brazell was in an intoxicated condition he drove his automobile north on Route 34 across the center line and crashed into the Knight automobile, injuring the three plaintiffs.

Mrs. Wanda Bramlet, Local Teacher, Suffers Light Heart Attack

Mrs. Wanda Bramlet, teacher at the Horace Mann school, suffered a light heart attack while at her work last Thursday. She was taken immediately to the Lightner hospital where she is undergoing examination and treatment.

Her condition is not believed to be serious but she is unable to have visitors. She is improving with treatment but will not be able to resume her duties at school for several days.

Mrs. Bramlet is the wife of Fred Bramlet, also a teacher and principal of Bayliss school, and the mother of two daughters enrolled in grade and Junior high school.

Mrs. Bramlet has taught 18 years in the schools of Saline county and has taught nine years in the Harrisburg school system. She is the teacher of a special class for retarded children at the Horace Mann school.

Gov't Reports Farm Prices Slightly Firmer

WASHINGTON (UP)—The Agriculture Department said today farm prices in the early months of 1955 will average somewhat above the low levels reached in December.

Prices of most farm products have "firmed slightly" in recent weeks with the passing of the seasonal marketing peak, the department said in its publication, "The Demand and Price Situation."

Cash receipts from farm marketings in December were tentatively estimated at $2,700,000,000, down 15 per cent from November but only about 2 per cent below December, 1954.

Receipts from livestock and products were about $1,300,000,000, and crop receipts were estimated tentatively at $1,400,000,000, both estimates show the usual seasonal decline from November.

December's tentative estimate plus the previous 11-month total gives a preliminary total of $29,200,000,000 for 1955 cash receipts, down 3 per cent from 1954. The department said this figure may be revised in March when more information of marketings becomes available.

Prices received by farmers declined each month during the last half of 1955 and in mid-December both crops and livestock products averaged 7 per cent below a year earlier.

The department said price declines during 1955 were "large"—38 per cent for hogs, and "substantial" for some feed grains, oilseeds, potatoes, and cattle. On the other hand, prices of eggs were substantially higher than in December, 1954, and moderate gains were reported for other poultry products, commercial vegetables, and tobacco. Dairy products averaged about the same.

Mary E. Brown Circle Holds First Meeting Of The New Year

The deepest snow of the season last week did not prevent the Mary E. Brown circle members from attending the annual New Year's get together held a few weeks later than usual.

The circle was organized January 4, 1943, at Mt. Pleasant Baptist church. Rev. F. D. Johnson was pastor, and the first chairman was the late Mrs. Birdie McGowan.

Two other circles were organized the same day, the Mary Smith with Mrs. Essie Fields chairman, and Cordelia Williams, Mrs. Emma Chap, chairman. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Ruby Jones. The meeting opened with devotions led by the chaplain, Mrs. Edna Fryson, who read Psalms 150. "The Lord's Prayer" was repeated in unison and the song "Jesus Keep Me Near the Cross" was sung.

Following a short business meeting the weekly lesson was taught by Mrs. Ora Allen. The topic was "Personal Decisions." The devotion, "Discernment and Duty in the Life of Daniel" was given.

During the social hour the members and guests enjoyed a bountiful turkey dinner after which gifts were exchanged by the following: Mesdames Helen Williams, Almeda Mason, Ann Miller, Edna Fryson, Ruby Jones, Ora Allen and guests, Mrs. Willie Canterbury and Mrs. Juanita Fields.

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND by DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says: Dulles' Policy Of Boldness Hasn't Fazed Red Chinese Around Formosa; This Is Because Dulles' Policy Is Vague And Vacillating; Eisenhower Postponed Any Decision Over Quemoy-Matsu.

WASHINGTON. — Most important question raised by all the hubbalooboo over the John Foster Dulles "brink-of-war" statement is whether the United States is drifting into war, or can keep the peace.

All other questions are unimportant. The political feuding between Democrats and Republicans aroused by the Life Magazine article doesn't amount to a hill of beans. Only important is the question of war and peace.

So let's take a careful look at the Dulles-Eisenhower score.

Before doing so, however, it might be well to recall that during the Hoover administration when the world first started its downhill drift toward war, an internationally minded Republican secretary of state, Henry L. Stimson, did his best to warn the U. S. and his president that aggressors were on the march in Asia and that this might lead toward war.

Stimson saw the landing of the Japanese army in Manchuria Sept. 18, 1931, as the first sign of eventual world war and he tried to do exactly what Dulles says he's doing now — take a firm stand which would prevent war. Stimson wanted the fleet mobilized, approached the Canadian, Mexican, and Chilean governments for use of bases along their coast, was ready to use the threat of force to stop the Japanese warlords.

But his President, Herbert Hoover, was opposed. So were strong isolationist elements within the Republican party. In move after move proposed by Stimson, he was stopped by his own President and his own party.

BOLDNESS MUST BE CLEAR-CUT History showed that Mr. Stimson was right, just as Mr. Dulles is right in his basic theory that war can be prevented if the United States takes a firm position and makes that position clearly known in advance.

However, the position must be so clear as to be completely unequivocal. There can be no vacillation. When it came to Indo-China, the Eisenhower administration vacillated all over the place, which was why we lost Indo-China. It was not a "save," as Life Magazine and Dulles so glibly put it. It was a tragic loss—largely because Nixon said we would use troops, Eisenhower said we would not use troops, Dulles said one thing one week and another the next, and no one could get together. Result: The Chinese Reds, knowing how confused we were, kept right on advancing.

That, however, is history. Let's look at the future. Life Magazine and Dulles also claim that "war was avoided" against Quemoy and Matsu as a result of the "Dulles policy of boldness."

WAS DULLES BOLD? However, it happens that the Red Chinese have been building air strips and massing troops opposite Quemoy and Matsu for some time and despite Dulles' boldness, war certainly has not yet been avoided. On the contrary, three high U. S. officials have just visited this area, obviously worried about war — Secretary of the Air Force Quarles, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Admiral Radford, and Air Chief of Staff Twining.

Now just what is the reason for the apparent Chinese disdain for Dulles' "policy of boldness?" The answer is the same as in the case of Indo-China: U. S. indecision and vacillation.

Here, despite the Life interview, are the inside facts as to what really happened.

On Sept. 12, 1954, the National Security Council flew to Denver for an unprecedented meeting with the President in which it urged that a definite policy of boldness be adopted toward Quemoy and Matsu, and that authorization be given to bomb the Chinese mainland in case the Red Chinese attacked.

President Eisenhower, however, refused to buy this policy. He postponed any decision. It was a difficult one to make, and like Herbert Hoover, when pressed by Stimson in regard to Manchuria in 1931, he side-stepped.

Mr. Dulles, referring to the policy of risking war around Formosa and Korea, stated in Life: "It took a lot more courage for the President than for me. His was the ultimate decision. The President never flinched for a minute on any of these decisions. He came up taut."

That, however, was not what happened. Weeks passed, then months. No decision came from the White House. Meanwhile the National Security Council kept Quemoy-Matsu up in the air. Eventually this indecision was noted in the American press, the first exclusive facts being published by Chalmers Roberts of the Washington Post, Nov. 8, 1954.

REDS KNEW THE SCORE

Long before this, however, our indecision had leaked to the Chinese Reds as a result of the many high U. S. officials forced to fly to Formosa to break the bad news and try to pacify Chiang Kai-Shek.

Dulles himself at one time flew to Formosa to try to persuade Chiang Kai-Shek to withdraw from the difficult-to-defend Quemoy-Matsu islands. But he did not mention this in his Life interview.

However, the Chinese Reds knew about his attempt, for on Formosa information leaks like a sieve. So the Reds kept right on building air strips and concentrating troops opposite Quemoy and Matsu regardless of the alleged Dulles policy of boldness.

Three months later, Jan. 1955, Eisenhower asked for a special resolution from Congress giving him power to retaliate on the Chinese mainland, even with atomic bombs—if the Red Chinese attacked "Formosa and the Pescadores." This authority to include the securing and protection of such related positions and territories of that area now in friendly hands.

But even here, there was no clear-cut decision regarding the much-discussed islands of Quemoy and Matsu. Mr. Dulles himself drafted the resolution which the Congress adopted. And despite his policy of boldness, he left the resolution vague. He did not mention Quemoy and Matsu.

Furthermore, Dulles' testimony given to Senate leaders did not specify whether Quemoy and Matsu were included in the phrase "related positions and territories."

Perhaps that's why the Red Chinese have gone on building bases and hauling up artillery opposite Quemoy and Matsu. Obviously they intend to test out the Dulles policy.

And the inescapable fact about the Dulles policy is that it will not work unless it's clear and unequivocal. It will work when it's really bold. But it won't work when backed up by vacillation, indecision, and phony boldness.

Unfortunately the present indecision over Quemoy-Matsu could plunge us into war.

For on the U. S. commanders who flash back first news of a Quemoy-Matsu attack will depend whether the United States unleashes the atomic bomb on the Chinese mainland — a bomb which in any event would turn millions of Asians against us and which could touch off World War III.

Gov't Reports Corporate Sales, Profits Drop

WASHINGTON (UP)—The government reported today both sales and after-tax profits of U. S. corporations dropped slightly in the third quarter of 1955. The dip came after a year of steady increase.

However, the overall national income continued its climb to a record level. Farm income, which was included in the total, stayed on the downgrade but was more than offset by fatter paychecks for wage and salary earners.

A joint report by the securities and Exchange and Federal Trade commissions showed that after-tax corporate profits dipped from $3,900,000,000 in the second quarter of 1955 to $3,700,000,000 in the third quarter.

Corporation sales declined some $800,000,000 to a $69,200,000,000 level, the report said. It said national income in 1955's third quarter soared to a record annual rate of $325,700,000,000, up 1 1/2 per cent from the second quarter.

Wages and salaries rose from an annual rate of $218,500,000,000 in the second quarter to $224,300,000,000. For the full nine months, the national income rate was $320 billion dollars, compared with $229,700,000,000 in 1954.

The Commerce Department report also included new figures for personal income, which is figured differently from national income and runs somewhat less. The latest personal income figures showed an annual rate of $311,400,000,000 in November and $301,900,000,000 for the first 11 months of 1955.

The U. S. Senate has rejected only one presidential cabinet nomination since the days of President Andrew Johnson and that was the nomination of Charles B. Warren for the attorney generalship by President Coolidge in 1925.

Two Indicted in Oil Promotion Frauds

DANVILLE, Ill. (UP)—Two persons have been indicted in an oil promotion scheme in which several St. Louis residents and other investors lost an estimated more than two-million dollars.

A federal grand jury in Danville returned the 16-count indictment last week. One of the defendants, Homer W. Snowden, 55, Dallas, Tex., was arrested Monday in Austin. The identity of the other is being withheld until his arrest.

The indictments charge the two with selling interest in unregistered oil and gas wells, and using the mails to promote the sales. Numerous dry holes were drilled in Texas, Kentucky, Colorado and California with funds raised by the two.

Pitch Lake, in Trinidad, is the world's largest producer of asphalt. An average of 200,000 tons of asphalt is excavated yearly, but the material soon replaces itself from the lake's depths.

He's Looking for a Mountain!

You see, he knows what he has down under that beautiful hood—a great, powerful V-8 engine that's pulsing with life—and he's simply itching to give it the word!

But he is a sane and sensible driver, who stays within the regulations and observes the laws of common sense—and he knows he can't unleash that engine on a normal stretch of highway.

So he's looking for a big, long, steep hill. Maybe he can get the throttle down there for a short thrust—just to see what it's like!

Well, maybe so—but even on a mountain, he won't use full throttle for long. For this car is powered far beyond all normal requirements.

Why, you might ask, is this so?

Well, in the judgment of Cadillac engineers, it's done for a number of vital and important reasons.

First of these is safety. A great reserve of power for the quick escape from an emergency is of the essence of highway safety.

Then there's economy. A big, powerful engine that loafs at normal speeds permits the use of an axle ratio that makes for gasoline economy.

There is long life, too—for the absence of strain adds years and years to the life of any mechanism.

And finally, there is the great riding and driving luxury that comes with extra power . . . the whisper-silent engine, the instant response to the throttle, the sense of safety and security.

Why not come in soon and see for yourself? We will be most happy to supervise a personal demonstration on the highway.

The car is waiting for you—and any time you find the time would be a good time for a date!

Harrisburg Woman's Club Has Musical Program On Guest Day

A large group of members of the Harrisburg Woman's club and guests were present yesterday afternoon in the club room of the public library for a delightfully entertaining musical program.

Mrs. E. Bishop Hill presided over the meeting in the absence of the president, Mrs. L. B. Kimmel. Mrs. J. J. Klein led in the "Pledge of Allegiance" after which the members introduced their guests.

Mrs. Hill announced that the annual Silver Tea would be held Feb. 6 at the home of Mrs. J. V. Capel from 2 to 5 p. m. She also stated that preparations were being made for a Valentine party at the Anna State hospital and asked the members to contact Mrs. Lawrence Smith, mental health chairman, who will call for items to be donated.

Mrs. Hill then presented Mrs. D. H. Hiller who was program chairman for the afternoon. A lovely meditation, "Music in Our Lives," written by Mrs. R. J. Morman, was read by Mrs. Joseph M. Hart.

Mrs. Hiller told the story of the Broadway musical, "The King and I" taken from the book, "Anna and the King of Siam," and at appropriate intervals music from "The King and I" was furnished.

"I Whistle a Happy Tune" was sung by Mrs. Hiller accompanied by Miss Frances Cummins. Mrs. L. N. Davenport sang "Hello Young Lovers." "The March of the Siamese Children" was played by Miss Cummins after which Mrs. Herman Davis sang "Getting to Know You." Mrs. John Slightom sang "We Kiss in the Shadows."

Mrs. Hiller also played several recordings from the musical. After the program delicious refreshments of dainty cookies, tea and coffee, were served from a long table set with silver and centered with a bouquet of yellow baby mums flanked with yellow candles.

Hostesses were Mrs. Cuba Turner, Mrs. Clyde Webb, Mrs. C. L. Petty and Mrs. P. J. Frankenstein.

Ald. Nicholas J. Bohling, who decided to buck the party by opposing Secretary of State Charles F. Carpenter in the GOP primary, disagreed with Ward by stating one of his reasons for running was to give Cook County "recognition and representation."

Sachs is a "rebel" in the Democratic camp, opposing the organization - slated candidate, Cook County Treasurer Herbert C. Paschen.

The Democrats also got a final-day non-slated candidate for lieutenant governor, James L. Griffin, Chicago. Roscoe Bonjean of Springfield got the party nod for this office.

Pennsylvania Voters Ballot in Congress Contest

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Voters of Pennsylvania's 30th congressional district balloted today in the nation's first congressional contest of the 1956 presidential year.

The special election, ordered by Gov. George M. Leader, will fill a vacancy resulting from the death of Democrat Vera Buchanan last November.

Republicans contend the election has no national significance because of the overwhelming Democratic strength in the district, which includes part of the city of Pittsburgh and the Monongahela Valley steel mill towns of McKeesport and Duquesne.

State Sen. Elmer J. Holland, a Pennsylvania CIO official and Democratic candidate for the post, had a 2 to 1 advantage in registration. He was expected to receive heavy support from union members in the Allegheny County district, which is one of the heaviest industrialized areas in the country.

The Republican candidate is David J. Smith, McKeesport cigar store operator, who in 1954 was defeated by Mrs. Buchanan, 98,318 to 44,137. Representatives of the United Steelworkers have worked with Democratic leaders in an effort to widen the margin, hoping a resounding victory would enhance the party's chances in November's presidential balloting.

Ice Cream Store Owner Is Killed In St. Louis Area

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A St. Louis County ice cream store owner was slain Monday night in what police said appeared to have been a holdup. Police found no witnesses to the killing of Arthur L. Seise, 59, but Supt. Albert E. Du Bois said it was "a calculated guess" that the shooting occurred at the Josse Ice Creamery, Afton, only a short time before the victim's son, Harry, 22, arrived at the store.

The son called as usual at the store Monday night to take his father home. He discovered Seise in front of the store's counter. Seise, mortally wounded, tried to tell his son something but collapsed. He had been shot four times with a .38-caliber weapon. Police said the robber evidently fled without taking the money. Fifty-five dollars was found in the cash register.

Probers Blast Two Agencies

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate investigations subcommittee today charged the Agriculture Department and the Naval Inspection Service with "gross inefficiency" for twice failing to require adequate inspection of government purchased grain bins.

The subcommittee reported that the department has recovered only $31,000 of the $893,884 it is claiming on defective storage bins purchased in 1949-50. Nevertheless, the subcommittee said, sufficient corrective action was not taken and "a large number" of defective bins were purchased in 1954.

Reporting on hearings held during the last congressional session, the subcommittee said the "negligence of the two government agencies has been costly to the government."

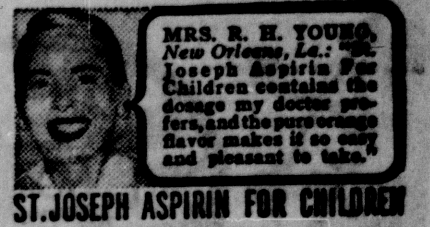

Citing "14 major errors" committed by the two agencies in the purchase of metal and wooden grain storage bins in 1954, the subcommittee said:

"The Department of Agriculture and the Naval Inspection Service were both guilty of gross inefficiency and demonstrated poor business management and lack of initiative and judgment."

Gov. Stratton Opposes Federal Aid to Schools

SPRINGFIELD (UP) — Gov. William G. Stratton today was on record in opposition to federal aid for Illinois schools.

The governor told a news conference Monday he opposes any "federal interference with the operation of the schools" and fears any federal aid might be a step in that direction.

Stratton said he looked with mixed feelings on President Eisenhower's school construction proposal calling for 250 million dollars in federal aid.

"Illinois already has done a reasonably good job in school construction," Stratton said.

He said only about 60 school districts in or near metropolitan areas are faced with school construction problems they cannot handle. He said only these 60 of some 2,200 school districts in the state have reached the limit of their bonding power.

Stratton said he would have to study further the President's plan out that it appeared Illinois would be paying more to the federal government than it would receive in aid grants.

He said Illinois school districts have spent 500 million dollars on school construction since 1946 and that the state generally is in good shape.

Stratton said he believes help from the next General Assembly may be needed for certain school districts in rapidly growing suburban areas.

But he said, "I know Illinois can handle its problem."

The Illinois White House Conference on Education last December voted opposition to federal aid, but the national conference went on record in favor of federal aid.

UN Expects A-Powers to Resume Talks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (UP) — United Nations diplomats today expected the world's five major atomic powers to agree to resume private disarmament talks in London on March 1.

The U. N. Disarmament Commission met Monday to constitute the United States, Great Britain, France, Canada and the Soviet Union as a subcommittee to explore disarmament proposals with special emphasis on President Eisenhower's "open sky" aerial inspection plan.

The five powers held two previous series of private talks—in London last spring and here last fall—without making any headway against the divergent positions of Russia and the western nations.

The Russians and the West denounced each other's approach to the arms reduction problem at Monday's meeting.

Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U. S. delegate, declared that the Eisenhower plan would "at one stroke free the world from the fear of its final war."

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev lashed out at the plan as a scheme for collecting military intelligence and accused the western powers of "backing out" of positions they previously agreed to on disarmament.

Mr. Eisenhower put forward his proposal at the Big Four heads-of-government summit conference in Geneva last July. It called for an exchange of military blueprints between the United States and Soviet Russia and of mutual aerial inspection rights.

U. I. Plans New Residence Halls

DECATUR, Ill. — President David Dodds Henry of the University of Illinois said Monday the university is working out a plan for building additional residence halls to be paid for through income from rents and other charges.

Henry told an Illini Club meeting that the university board of trustees will soon "receive a statement of the need for additional residence halls and a plan to make it possible for students to live in quarters that meet university standards."

He said that "unless remedial steps are taken at once," the university and the Champaign-Urbana community will be unable to handle student housing demands.

Seek Compromise

On Multi-Billion

U. S. Highway Program

WASHINGTON — House Democratic and Republican leaders worked quietly behind closed doors today seeking a compromise to speed passage of a multi-billion dollar highway program.

Details on what would be in the highway bill have not yet been spelled out. But there were growing indications that a compromise would be reached on the controversial issue of how to finance the program.

Funeral Services

Today for LeRoy Gibbs

Funeral services for LeRoy Gibbs, Gary, Ind., who died Sunday at the home of his sister, Mrs. Lura Davis, in Mitchellville where he had been visiting, were held today at 2 p. m. at the Herod Springs Baptist church. Rev. Joe Goolsby officiated and burial was in Spring Valley cemetery. The Gibbs funeral service was in charge.

GOP Leaders Predict Farm Bill Will Pass Senate After Huddle with Ike

WASHINGTON — Republican leaders predicted after a strategy huddle with President Eisenhower today that the bulk of the administration's farm program will pass the Senate.

But they told the chief executive it may be necessary to rush through emergency legislation on the school lunch and Bank's disease programs ahead of the big farm relief bill.

Top Senate and House Republican leaders conferred with Mr. Eisenhower for more than an hour. They mostly discussed the farm program and the school construction bill.

Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH), chairman of the Senate GOP Policy committee, said his estimate is that the President's farm proposals — or something close to them — will pass the Senate. He said Republican leaders expect the Senate to take up farm legislation after the natural gas and sugar bills.

He said it may be necessary to pass special appropriations for the Bank's disease and school lunch programs ahead of the regular session legislation.

Begin Drafting Bill

He pointed out that in 12 states federal funds for milk in the school lunch program will be exhausted in two or three weeks. Funds for control of Bang's disease—contagious abortion—also are running out in some states.

The Senate Agriculture committee meanwhile met in closed session to begin drafting the main farm bill.

Its immediate concern was how to finance the soil bank plan proposed by President Eisenhower. But Chairman Allen J. Ellender (D-La.) also wanted a decision on his proposal for a "compromise" price support plan.

Under Ellender's proposal, 90 per cent of parity supports would be provided for top quality wheat, cotton, corn, peanuts and rice and lower supports for lesser grades.

But Ellender said the proposal "seems to be in danger" because he has not yet found a "yardstick to define quality." He warned that if the plan is not worked out, "we

Minister Wakes Up Village When Few Show Up for Services

EXNING, England — The 3,800 inhabitants of this little village were awakened abruptly Sunday by the persistent honking of an automobile horn.

The Rev. Robert Henry Craig said he drove his automobile through every street in the town with his thumb on the horn button might have to go back to straight 90 per cent support of all qualities of basic crops.

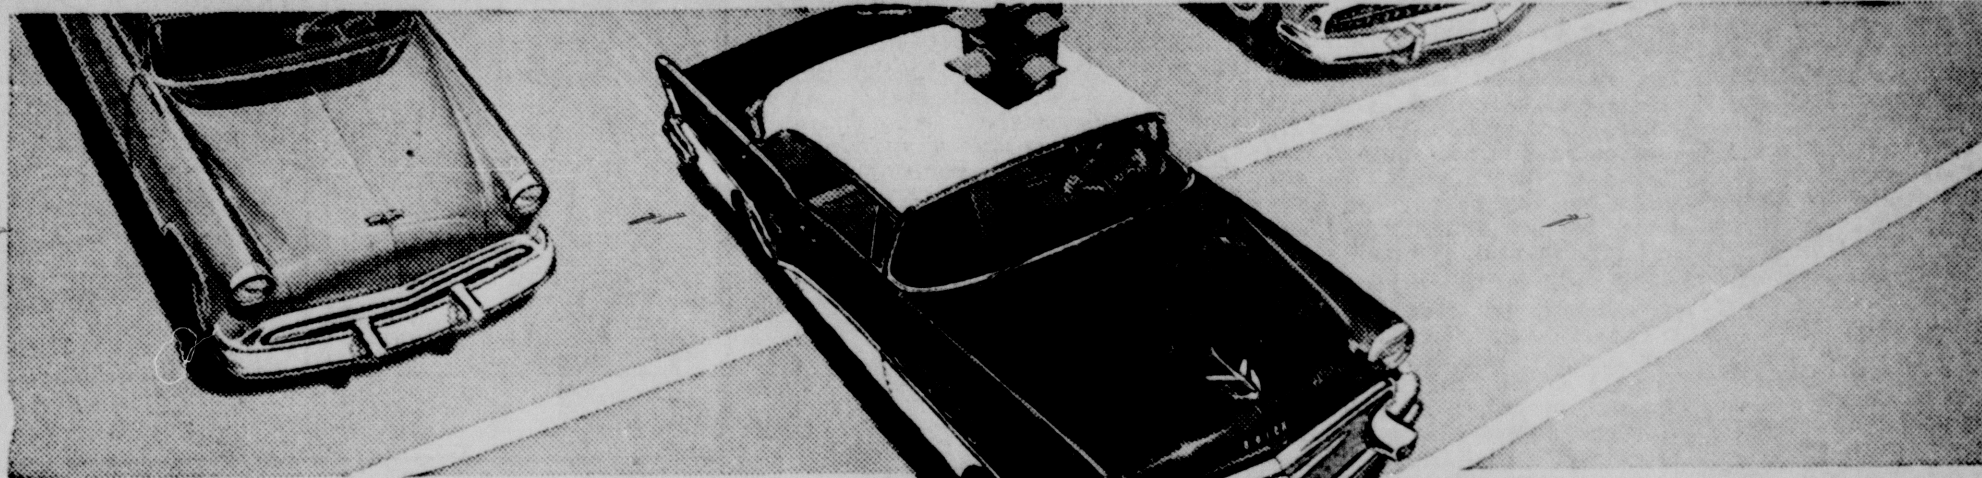

Under the administration's flexible price support program, support payments can range from 75 to 90 per cent of parity.

Best Buick yet

The light is red and you're ready.

It flashes green and you go—but quick.

And that's when you discover the Number One news about Buick's new Dynaflo...

That it gives you brilliant new getaway response for city traffic at only part throttle—even before you switch the pitch of this airplane-principled transmission. (And think of the big gas savings that means!)

Next comes the Number Two discovery—out on the road.

For here—still without switching the pitch—you have plenty more nimble acceleration to surge or spurt ahead, to climb hills, to do with almost effortless ease all the things normally called for by highway driving.

But comes an emergency—the need to get out of a tight spot—and you discover the Number Three news...

That you can do what a pilot does. That you can switch the pitch of your Dynaflo blades—just by flooring the pedal. And that you get, instantly, a full-power take-off from cruising pace—an electrifying burst of acceleration—the most thrilling safety measure on four wheels today.

This is performance too good to pass up—and you really ought to try it.

It's performance sparked by the whispered might of big new 322-cubic-inch V8 engines raised to record highs in power and compression.

It's performance that goes with the best ride yet, the best handling yet, the best interiors yet, the best styling yet—and, literally, with the best Buick yet.

Come in and see—and be shown—and learn, in the doing, about prices that make these '56 Buicks the best buy yet.

*New Advanced Variable Pitch Dynaflo is the only Dynaflo Buick builds today. It is standard on Roadmaster, Super and Century—optional at modest extra cost on the Special.

†Standard on Roadmaster and Super, optional at extra cost on other Series.

Music Boosters Club Plans Chili Supper

The Music Boosters club met at the high school on Jan. 12.

Minutes were read and approved and the treasurer's report was given. Wayne Minton reported the school board had purchased two badly needed uniforms and will purchase some instruments.

Discussion concerning sending some band members to summer music camp was tabled until the February meeting. Also tabled for further discussion was the district contest to be held in March.

It was voted to have a chili supper with the tentative date set for March 10. Details will be worked out at the next meeting.

The program chairman, Rosemary Bell, presented Wanda Holoway, who sang "My Bill," accompanied by Larry Edwards; a bass solo, "Murmurs," by John Yocum, accompanied by Charles Rann, and vocal selections, "The Road to Kerry," "Old Man River," by Charles Rann, also accompanied by Larry Edwards.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. James Beggs, Mrs. Ella Milligan and Mrs. Dimple Strucjub at the close of the meeting.

All persons interested in the music program of the Carrier Mills school are cordially invited to attend the next meeting on Feb. 9.

Woman's Club Meets At Masonic Temple
The Woman's club of Carrier Mills met recently at the Masonic temple and was opened by Mrs. Freeman Pankey.

Singing was led by Mrs. James Thornton, accompanied by Mrs. Hugh Miller. The pledge of allegiance was led by Mrs. John Gibson.

Mrs. Hugh Miller had charge of the meditation and chose the 28th chapter of Matthew, 18th to 20th verse. Mrs. Ceborn Parks led in prayer.

Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and reports were made by the treasurer and corresponding secretary.

The club voted to help canvass the town for the polio drive.

The lesson on international relationships was interesting and Mrs. Guy Hunter presented a group of students from Harrisburg.

The hostesses, Mrs. Jade Chase, Mrs. Claude Moake, Mrs. Raymond Field and Mrs. Lloyd Campbell, served refreshments at the close of the meeting.

Baptist Fellowship Class Entertains Wives
Members of the Fellowship class of the First Baptist church entertained their wives Saturday evening in the lower rooms of the church.

The members presented their teacher, Harry McAtee, with a nice gift.

The social hour was spent in singing and delicious refreshments were served to the following:

Rev. Ernest Ammon, Mr. and Mrs. Harry McAtee and grandson, Stevie, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Yocum, Mr. and Mrs. Orval Blackman, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coats and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Spears, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Holloway, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fife, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bailey and Mrs. Harry Rann.

Busy Fingers Unit Meets With Mrs. Irma Jean VanMeter
The Busy Fingers Home Bureau unit met at the home of Mrs. Irma Jean VanMeter Tuesday.

The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Marvella Sutton, and roll call was answered by "Family Goal for 1956."

The minutes were read by the secretary, Bonnell Hafford.

The program chairman, Colleen Edmonson, gave her report and new program booklets were distributed and filled out for the coming year.

A coffee was planned for the benefit of the polio drive.

An election of officers was held with Bonnell Hafford the new chairman and Marge Davis secretary and treasurer.

Bonnell Hafford and Imogene Devel received anniversary and birthday gifts from their mystery pals.

Recreation prizes were won by Marchetta Clore and Bonnell Hafford.

Jo Gilchrist gave the major topic, "Using Familiar Green and Yellow Vegetables."

Refreshments were served to the following members: Colleen Edmonson, Marchetta Clore, Imogene Devel, Aline Stone, Bonnell Hafford, Marvella Sutton, Marge Davis, Rita Lane, Sylvia Lane, Catherine Wasson, a guest, Shirley Martin, and the hostess.

Comfort Lodge Installs Officers in Beautiful Candlelight Ceremony
A large number attended the beautiful candlelight installation ceremony of Comfort Rebekah lodge No. 48, Tuesday evening, when Mrs. Aud (Mae) Dallas was installed noble grand.

A duet, Marilyn Jamerson and Jerrell Keith Chaney, accompanied by Larry Edwards at the piano, opened the meeting by singing, "He."

Mrs. Genevieve Jamerson, retiring noble grand, welcomed those present, and the flag was presented by Terry Dallas, son of the incoming noble grand. The Ode to the Flag was given by Mrs. Ella Chase.

Mrs. Gladys Pankey and Mrs. Beth Cushist lighted the candles as the installation service was ready to begin.

Officers installed were Mrs. Mae Dallas, noble grand; Lucille Harper, vice grand; Thelma O'Neal, recording secretary; Ella Chase, financial secretary; Golden Abney, treasurer; Clara Mae Burley, war-dea; Pete Holmes, conductor; Je-hell Martin, chaplain; Carrie B. Wasson, musician;

Five Inch Snow Hits Memphis

By United Press

The South's first big snow storm of the season buried Memphis under the heaviest snow in eight years today.

The snow storm moved out of Arkansas, across Tennessee, and into central North Carolina. Tennessee was blanketed by a 2 to 6-inch snow cover and Elizabeth City, N. C., measured 4 inches.

Memphis' 5-inch snowstorm was its worst since 1948.

Many Tennessee schools were closed, air traffic was halted at Memphis and Nashville, and some flights were cancelled at Knoxville.

The snow changed to rains farther south, hitting hardest at central and northern Florida. Tallahassee was pounded by 2 inches of rain and Tampa measured 1 1/2 inches Monday night.

Warm air brought a welcome end to sub-zero temperatures in the Plains. Temperatures jumped as much as 30 degrees in Minnesota and the Dakotas, but Wisconsin was still in the deep freeze with Grantsburg registering 18 below zero early today.

The installing officers were Oscar Kingery, installing president; Thelma O'Neal, marshal; Carrie Wasson, musician; Ellen Kingery, warden; Jane Pankey, recording secretary; Addie Miller, financial secretary; Grace Henson, inner guard; Blanche Whitney, outer guard; and Kathleen McNew, installing chaplain.

Three Killed in Explosion, Fire

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Three persons, including two children, were killed early today when an explosion and fire ripped through their one-story wooden cottage on Chicago's South Side.

Dead were Fidel Rievera, 55, his daughter, Francisca Crespo, 12, and her brother, Fidel Crespo, 8.

Firemen battled the blaze for nearly an hour before they could enter the home. They found the bodies in a bedroom.

Witnesses said they heard an explosion before they saw the building burst into flames.

Are you a financial giant to the Mrs.?

Startle her when she asks you these sassy questions

Wife: Why haven't you tried to increase your income by buying stocks the way my smart brother Hubert does?

You: If your smart brother Hubert had enough savings put by to meet family emergencies before he began buying stock, then I'll agree he's smart. Because that's the smart thing to do first.

Wife: But are you quite sure you know what common stocks and dividends are?

You: (Careful, no temper.) A surprise awaits you. When you buy a company's common stock you own a share of that company. The share of its profits you receive is your dividend. You must understand, darling, that companies don't always pay dividends—although 308 stocks on the New York Stock Exchange have come up with a dividend every year for 25 to 108 years.

Wife: Interesting, but can you tell me just what the Stock Exchange is?

You: Listen carefully. The New York Stock Exchange is a well-run, well-supervised market place. It's the job of members on the trading floor to find somebody who will sell stock if you want to buy, or buy if you want to sell. You'll find the stock of more than 1100 companies on the Exchange. The thing to do is pick the ones that look best to you.

Wife: How would you go about picking these good companies?

You: Always get the facts, my love. Facts about a company's record—its management, profits, dividends, progress—and other information to help you judge its prospects for growth. Don't forget stocks can go down in price as well as up. But one of the advantages of being part owner of a company is that when it grows you can share in its growth.

Wife: But where will you get information like that, dear?

You: (Note the "dear.") You're gaining on her. I'll drop in on a broker in a Member Firm. He handles not just stocks but bonds, too. He's going to be interested in my objectives and financial welfare—the better off I am the better off he will be. He'll give me a lot of information to help me invest intelligently.

You've got her now. But press home your victory. Ask your new broker friend for a copy of our free booklet "Investment Facts About Common Stocks and Cash Dividends." It tells you about such things as dividends paid on many stocks and the Monthly Investment Plan, which enables you to invest as little as $40 every three months. Or send the coupon today to Dept. 6A, New York Stock Exchange, P.O. Box 252, New York 5, N. Y.

Herrin Moves to Fourth in Ratings; Rams Sixth, Shawneetown 12th

SPRINGFIELD — Herrin made the biggest gain in the United Press coaches' rankings of Illinois high school basketball teams this week, moving from ninth to fourth place.

The Tigers whipped both Pinckneyville and West Frankfort during the week to earn the advance.

Despite one-point losses to both Herrin and Quincy, Pinckneyville clung to second place in the ratings, just behind Rockford West, which garnered all 13 first-place votes from the coaches voting this week.

The United Press Board of Coaches includes the 15 coaches who took downstate teams to the state finals last year.

Moline, whipping Elgin, was a strong third in the voting, just behind Pinckneyville. Pinckneyville

The Midget conference basketball tournament gets underway at 6:30 this evening in the Carrier Mills gym. The meet will continue through Thursday with two games each night.

In the opening game tonight Raleigh meets Morrisville and Broughton vs. Carrier Mills will complete the session.

Wednesday the winner of game one plays Galatia and the winner of game 2 faces Muddy.

Wednesday's losers play at 6:30 Thursday for consolation honors and Wednesday's winners will play for the championship.

Admission for each session will be 35 cents and 20 cents.

Frankie Albert, New 49ers' Coach, Retains Assistants

SAN FRANCISCO — Frankie Albert, playing it much more cautiously as coach of the San Francisco Forty-Niners than he did when he was their quarterback, was satisfied today to retain the three assistants who labored in vain last season under Red Strader.

The former Stanford hero, in his first official act since being hired to replace Strader after the disastrous 1955 season, announced Monday that Line Coach Phil Bengtson, End Coach Howard (Red) Hickey and Coach-Scout Mark Duncan all will be retained for the 1956 campaign.

YOUNG MEN FROM THIS AREA enlist in the U. S. Navy during "Operation Sign-up" and become a part of the all-Illinois "Abe Lincoln" company. At the peak of the sign-up 117 men were administered the oath of allegiance into the Navy in ceremonies at the Navy Recruiting Station in St. Louis in one day. The Illinois men becoming members of the "Abe Lincoln" company will train together at Great Lakes for nine weeks, then return to their homes for 14 days of leave. Included in the group enlisting from southern Illinois were William Gosnell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gosnell, 808 Park street, Eldorado, and Larry David Carner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Darwin Carner, 612 East Washington street, Carrier Mills. Lions to Sponsor Wrestling Program Here

The Harrisburg Lions club is making plans to sponsor a wrestling program in Harrisburg featuring big-name performers.

Negotiations are being carried on with a promoter from Springfield and although nothing definite has been accomplished the local organization will sponsor the program if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

Tentative plans call for the program to be staged in about six weeks and would include three matches, including a tag match, women wrestlers in a semifinal and big-name men stars in the final.

At the regular meeting Monday the club voted to contribute $20 each to the Leader Dog School and the Hadley School for the Blind.

Two new members were accepted into the club—Rufus Davidson and Richard Reynolds.

Pro Giants Select SIU's Wayne Williams

CARBONDALE, Ill. — The New York Giants professional football team has picked Wayne Williams, captain of the 1955 Southern Illinois University football team, in the annual draft of the National Football League.

Williams, an end from Du Quoin, was Southern's top pass receiver and punter this past season. He also was a great defensive player.

Among the choices of the Chicago Bears was Jim Buckler, a tackle who played for Southern Illinois University and later at Alabama University.

Iowa Comes from Behind To Beat Purdue, 67-63, to Remain in Race for Title

CHICAGO — Iowa's defending champion Hawkeyes made the 1956 Big Ten championship race a strictly "two team affair" Monday night with a thrilling come-from-behind win over Purdue.

The Hawkeyes thus entrenched themselves in second place with a 4-1 record behind Illinois (4-0). All other conference teams have suffered from two to four losses.

The Hawkeyes are now idle until Feb. 6 when they travel to Wisconsin. Illinois returns to battle Monday at Minnesota and then plays its next three games at home.

Illinois and Iowa meet only once this season—in the afternoon televised game at Iowa City March 3.

Purdue almost slammed the door on Iowa's title aspirations but blew a nine-point lead with seven minutes to play.

Logan Breaks Final Tie

Center Bill Logan, who was benched midway through the game with four personals, broke the final tie at 63-all with 1:55 to go. With three seconds left, sub Augie Martel hit his second basket of the night to give the Hawks the win, 67-63.

Logan, who scored 28 points Saturday in leading Iowa to a 78-67 triumph over Michigan, broke the Bullermakers' back with 21 points. The Hawkeye hotshot connected on eight of 13 field goal attempts and five of six free throws.

Purdue was hurt when giant center and football star Lamar Lindy fouled out with 5:24 to go. The Bullermakers were leading then, 58-55, and Lindy was their best rebound man.

Veteran Joe Sexson sparked Purdue with 23 points.

Freeman Chunks in 30

Ohio State humiliated Northwestern, 91-42, in the only other Big Ten game Monday night.

Robin Freeman scored 18 of his 30 points in the first half in pacing the Buckeyes to a 46-22 halftime lead. Freeman's Big Ten average in five games is now 20.6.

The win boosted Ohio State into a third-place tie with Indiana. Both have 3-2 records. Purdue's third loss in seven games dropped it to fifth.

Northwestern, with only one win in 12 games all season long, was

It's the highest honor in the game.

Looking at Sports

BY BILL MELTON

Shawneetown's "big eight" is now a "big seven." Carroll Crane, 6-0 senior guard, completed eight semesters of eligibility last week and played his last game for the Indians Friday night in the GEC championship game.

Reporting for this season's team were eight of last year's first ten that won 32 games before losing in the quarterfinals of the state meet.

Among the eight was Crane, a guard. He was never a headline maker, but a play maker and a valuable member of the squad. For his final game his teammates elected him captain and he accepted the GEC trophy for the Indians Friday night.

He will continue to help his team by playing with the "red shirts," the Shawneetown reserves. He figures to help the regulars improve by giving them "first string" competition every practice.

Crane suffered a broken leg as a freshman and was forced to quit school, but had attended a sufficient number of days for it to be counted a semester from an eligibility standpoint.

"We will really miss Crane," Coach Valters stated today. Continuing, Valters said, "We have some virtually unknown heroes on our squad that I want to pay tribute too. Boys like Thrallkill, Coleman and Maynard don't see much action and are not well known by fans out of town. But they are the boys that report every day for practice and push the first five through rugged sessions. Without the reserves the first team players wouldn't have a chance to improve as they have during the season."

Had a three-way tie in last week's "you pick 'em" with Gene Irvin of Eldorado, Bob Rister of Shawneetown and "Slick" Thompson of Harrisburg each picking nine correctly and missing one. However, Rister takes top honors on his score of the "game of the week." Eldorado won from Harrisburg 52-50 in a double overtime. Rister, although off on the points, was exactly correct on the spread. He predicted a 67-65 score in favor of Eldorado. Irvin gave Eldorado a spread of 7 points and Thompson's only loss was in picking Harrisburg to win by 62-33.

Pinckneyville was the "spoiler" in the contest. A majority of the entrants selected Pinckneyville to beat Quincy, but they didn't.

A surprise to me was the great number that picked West Frankfort over Centralia. To me it was something of an upset when WF won, but practically all entrants called it a WF victory.

Here is our list of games for this week's "you pick 'em."

Billy Evans, Prominent Baseball Official, Dies

MIAMI, Fla. — William G. (Billy) Evans, prominent figure in the American League for four decades as an umpire and later a club official, died here Monday night of a stroke at the age of 71.

Evans, who was visiting his sons here Saturday when he suffered the attack, was an American League umpire for 22 years. Later he was general manager of the Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers.

Evans, one of baseball's most colorful figures in modern times, never played a single game in professional baseball. Instead, he started his career in sports as a sports writer for the Youngstown, Ohio, Vindicator. Part of his duties there was to cover games in the Class D Ohio - Pennsylvania League.

Evans became general manager of the Cleveland Indians in 1927 and held that post for eight years. Later he held executive posts with the Boston Red Sox and Detroit Tigers.

Funeral services will be held in Cleveland.

Arlen Hill Out For Season at SIU

CARBONDALE, Ill. — Arlen Hill, freshman from Pinckneyville, is out for the season with a broken ankle received in a B-team game against St. Louis University.

Hill, a 6-2 forward, was one of Southern's best freshmen prospects and had seen considerable action both on the Junior Varsity and varsity cage squads.

WHY THE CHRYSLER WINDSOR V-8

Everything about driving a Chrysler is new! You touch a button on the left (and safe!) side . . . and Push-button PowerFlite, the smoothest of all transmissions, goes into action.

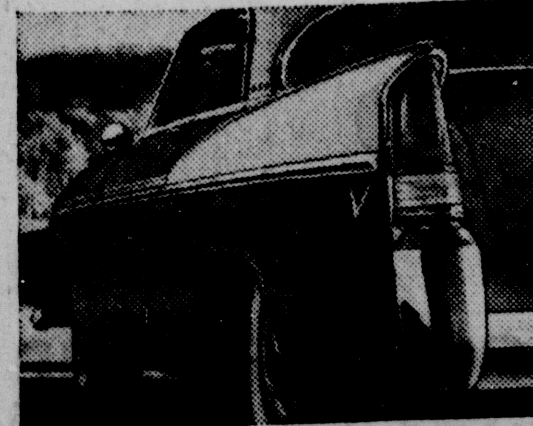

From four lengths behind to four lengths ahead of a moving truck going 40 m.p.h. in 8 seconds flat. That's the kind of reserve power you get in Chrysler's great airplane-type V-8 engine.

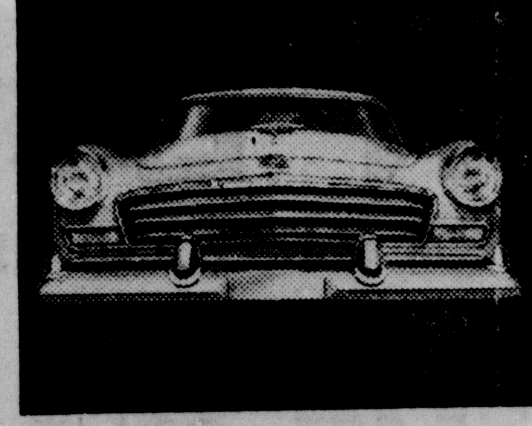

Full-time PowerPilot Steering does 80% of the work . . . gives you a cat-footed feel of the road every inch of the way . . . requires less pull . . . only 3½ turns from full left to full right.

IS THE YEAR-AHEAD CAR

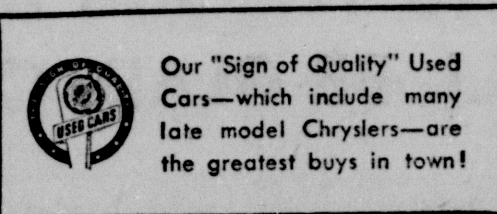

And talk about style! Here's the "PowerStyle" look that is showing its sassy tail to contemporary car designs. Isn't it time you compared a Chrysler with the other cars in its price class?

Best of all, you can own a bigger, more powerful Chrysler Windsor for the cost of a medium-priced car. Here is year-ahead value that means better re-sale value for years to come.

Premier of Soviet Union's Largest
Republic Resigns

LONDON — The premier of the Soviet Union's biggest republic has resigned "to strengthen the leadership." Radio Moscow announced today.

The broadcast said A. M. Puzanov quit as premier of the Russian Soviet Federal Socialist Republic, the central area which includes Moscow and most of what was Czarist Russia.

Puzanov was the second premier of a constituent republic of the USSR to fall in a week. Last Thursday Medzhislovas Gedvilas was removed as premier of Lithuania. No reason was given.

Radio Moscow said Puzanov "has tendered his resignation in order to strengthen the leadership of the R. S. F. S. R. Russian republic council of ministers."

"He is replaced by Yasnov," the broadcast said. Western observers could not immediately identify the new premier.

Captain Naish reached out for Phoebe where she stood hesitant on deck. "Come and meet my friend."

Kauai was by the bunk in his cabin. He was packing the few pieces of gear he had acquired in the ship. The door was hooked back and Naish lifted the hook and entered. "My sweetheart's outside," he said. "You should meet her."

"You're sure?" Kauai said. He heard what Proctor said. Naish thought, and he's for the dock. No more of this ship for him. "Of course," Naish said. "She wants to very much."

Kauai loomed tall and broad and dark in the passageway and Phoebe looked up at him with a nervous smile. Naish sharply watched them as Kauai took her hand. He felt a peculiar sensation of loss. Her presence meant that a good deal of the friendship between him and Kauai was finished. It set Kauai away from him and alone. Nor was he capable of altering the matter if he loved Phoebe. Strange and sad, but true.

"Kauai saved my life," he said to Phoebe, his fingers on her arm. "The lad did more. He saved the ship."

"The captain," Kauai said quickly, "talks big. I helped only a little bit."

"But I believe him," Phoebe said, and now she was at her ease. "After all, he's to be my husband. I'd better, hadn't I?"

"Yes, Miss," Kauai said. He smiled.

"You must join us for dinner tomorrow night," Phoebe said. "Be at our home at 7. Jereed will tell you how to get there. Thank you for what you've done, Kauai."

"Yes, Miss, and thank you," Kauai turned back into the cabin. He shut the door.

Phoebe clung to Naish in the passageway. She kissed him wildly. "My father is a fool," she said. "There's a good man."

"I'll handle your father," Naish said.

"I'm your woman."

"Then go sit in the main cabin and be quiet. I have to pay off my crew. The lads have had a severe voyage and they deserve their money."

Phoebe's younger brothers and sisters were in the dooryard to greet him. The girls, Hepzibah in particular, had grown, and she would be as fetching as Phoebe. He had gifts for them.

The house was softly shadowed, then radiant with candles. He sat on a sofa beside Phoebe in the living room before the fire, all the family except Captain Proctor clustered around him. Captain Proctor and his father, he knew, were in the library. They examined his journal of the voyage and they were working up an estimate of the worth of the cargo at present prices. Great men for a dollar, those two.

But the fire made him sleepy, even with the rum Phoebe had put into his tea. He spoke more and more drowsily, mumbling his answers. Then his head slipped over onto Phoebe's shoulder; he was soundly asleep.

He awoke to hear Hepzibah and Diane and Carol laughing. "Did I snore?" he said.

"You did," Hepzibah said before Phoebe could answer. She gave Naish a glance of outright calculation. "Phoebe refused to move one single bit. Just sat there while you went rumf, rumf! If any suitor of mine started that I'd push him off into the fire."

"But Jereed's not my suitor, sily," Phoebe said. "I'm going to marry him."

"When?" Hepzibah asked, her eyes narrowed in the firelight. "Tell us when. The whole town wishes to know."

"Children!" Mrs. Proctor said. "But the oldest boy, Arnold, had crept up in back of the chair where Hepzibah sat. He yanked her hair. "Snoop," he said. "Horse's tail is jealous. Let them be."

"Oh, you," Hepzibah said and sprang up and with her brothers and sisters shouting, laughing, shoving, chased him out of the room. Then Captain Proctor and Jereed's father came in, solemn side by side. More rum was served. The maid in the doorway said that dinner was ready.

With the wine served at dinner Jereed became slightly loquacious.

DEMOCRATIC HOPEFULS:

Adlai Stevenson Has Picked
Up Political Savvy; Pros
Take Over His Campaign

By LYLE C. WILSON

United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON — Adlai E. Stevenson is slugging this year for the Democratic presidential nomination which he all but brushed aside in 1952. As of today he is far ahead of the pack—and running hard.

The 1956 model Stevenson is a different man and a somewhat different candidate, now aged 55 years.

The crew-cut crew in the Brooks Brothers outfits which distinguished his Springfield, Ill., campaign headquarters four years ago are loyal, still. But they are less evident. He has strong support in the Americans for Democratic action, the hard core of FDR's New Deal.

A delicate disdain for the rough and tumble of politics which some sensed in the Stevenson camp in 1952 is less discernible now. Headquarters has been shifted to big and boisterous Chicago where politics is rough and ready. And the man himself seems to have picked up a lot of political savvy since 1952.

Some Dark Horses

The political pros are taking over the Stevenson campaign. His campaign manager is James Finnegan, a graduate of Philadelphia's well adjusted, Democratic organization.

Stevenson is the man to beat with the Democratic convention more than six months away. Two men, especially, are out to beat him and there are some dark horses. The two are Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee. Harriman, coy, has not formally announced his "active" candidacy. Kefauver is in officially and he may be a real factor in the pre-convention scramble.

Stevenson announced his candidacy Nov. 15 on a platform of a safer and safer world-prosperity and peace. By now he has agreed to enter presidential primary contests in California, Florida, Illinois, Minnesota and Pennsylvania. He will meet Kefauver head-on in California and Florida, perhaps in Minnesota.

A primary defeat would be disabling although not necessarily deadly to his candidacy. Stevenson's managers already claim

He responded to Captain Proctor's adroit questions and he gave an incomplete but dramatic account of the voyage. Mrs. Proctor wept when he told of the men who had died of scurvy. Phoebe sat rigid and pale, her lips compressed, her eyes on her plate. Then Jereed went on to describe the arrival at Rutua and she said softly during one of his spells of silence. "So that is why Mr. Kauai's your friend."

"Yes," Jereed said. He looked at her in grateful surprise. "Kauai brought the ship in. Then, later he arranged it so we could sail. The Obis wouldn't be in port tonight if it wasn't for him."

"Your Polynesian may be quite a fella," Philip Naish said from across the table. "But about the best we can do for him is two thousand as his share. What's coming to you, Jereed, is well over ten, and we figure—"

"Let the money talk go for tonight," Jereed said. "I'll be with you men down at the counting house tomorrow. Then I can take a real look-see at your figures."

"Jereed's tired," Phoebe said, and swung to face her mother. "Mother, may we have Mr. Kauai for dinner tomorrow night? In fact, I already asked him when I was aboard. Jereed had told me how the ship was saved, you see, and I believed that it would be nice to make him our guest."
